

Native and Adaptive Plants Clarkdale, Arizona

Centennial Plaza

On July 14, 2012, the Town of Clarkdale dedicated Centennial Plaza as our first demonstration permaculture garden.

This Sustainable Clarkdale project transformed the area in front of the Clark Memorial Clubhouse at Town Hall from a dusty collection of weeds into a beautifully landscaped community space including 5,100 gallons of rainwater cisterns harvesting runoff from the roof of the Clubhouse, featuring low-water-use native plants, and including six catchment basins trapping water from the parking lot for percolation into the ground.

In addition, the Plaza features a 24-foot by 35-foot legacy brick community gathering space with pathways reminiscent of the layout of the original Town Park.

Also, the new Plaza features two buried time capsules commemorating the Town of Clarkdale's Centennial.
